The Slaney Language Centre Staff and Students.

really is top class!

Self-catering apartments are available to families who wish to take part in these classes. Young at Heart classes are ongoing, inviting those over 50 to improve their English. A lot of language students attend full-time courses for 25 weeks to a full year. The school can boast a wide age range for their classes - their youngest pupil so far was six while their oldest is 84!

Lisa added that the host family set-up encouraged pupils to use the English they were learning.

'While tuition and activities are important, host families play the most vital role in the overall success of the student experience. Students choose host family accommodation to experience Irish culture and to become exposed to the English language in a natural way.'

While the majority of students opt for host family accommodation, some stay in B&Bs, hotels or self-catering apartments.

In addition to all of that, the student groups enjoy various activities during the summer, from trips to Curracloe to try out surfing, to sailing days in Dun Laoghaire, hiking in Glendalough and cycling the Waterford Greenway, enjoying fun-filled activity in LeisureMax, as well as taking in local sights like Johnstown Castle.

The school has six full time staff plus a number of seasonal workers and part-time staff.

Lisa and Esteban assure the highest standard of professionalism and follow the strict guidelines as laid out by Accreditation and Coordination of English Language Services (ACELS) through the service of Quality and Qualifications Ireland (QQI). The Slaney Language Centre is a proud member of MEI (Marketing English in Ireland), the leading language school association in Ireland.

Lisa expressed particular gratitude to Jim Shannon from transport company Slaney Tours who, she said, went the extra mile to ensure unforgettable tour experiences for the students.

Above all, the staff enjoy watching friendships flourish among the students: 'Students of all ages, nationalities and religions get to know each other at The Slaney Language Centre, where they learn English and experience Irish life. It is moving to witness long lasting friendships being made between students of so many different backgrounds and religions. We feel that we contribute in a small way to a more tolerant and liberal society.'

Courses include: General English, Business English, Exam Preparation, Academic Year 25 Week Course (ILEP), English Courses for all the family, Young at Heart Courses, English and Golf Courses, Ministays for Groups, Cambridge English: First (FCE) exam preparation evening classes.

The centre also helps to facilitate Au Pair placements. New host families and Au Pair families are always welcome.
